Standard Waiver:

At this time Dancing Trees Marimba Band does not carry liability insurance. We believe that the risk of accident is very low, and the band will take due precautions. We ask that children not play around the instruments and equipment, and that fragile or expensive items not be close to the performance area as some of the instruments are quite heavy, and awkward to set up. By accepting this contract, you agree to release Dancing Trees from liability for damage to persons or property on the date of the above performance.
